New Owners for Winton Bakery

By Jeannie Peebles

It wasn't long before a petition was going around to bring it back. Of course I did, and it now happily sits in the pie cabinet alongside a "runny mince pie" and more modern flavours like butter chicken and seafood.

"The cream buns, a Southland favourite that have had news stories written about them will never change."

Working through a worldwide pandemic is not something anyone expected in their lifetime and I was so proud of how my talented team managed, learning about social distancing, then contact tracing, and keeping things running as normally as we could.

Good food became a comfort for many of you during those uncertain times.

Being part of the Winton community has been so important to me and we have run fundraisers for the Charity Hospital, gorgeous pink donuts for breast cancer awareness, and set up the Winton Food Share cupboard to make sure our leftovers were used by people who needed them.

I will still be working to get the Food Share operating again. We're such a great community that I know you'll make Panhar and Sonita, the new owners, welcome. They also own The Bakery in Queenstown.

It's been such an honour to serve the Winton community for 16 years and to give so many people a job, sometimes their first. I still love what I do but now it's time to just go home, enjoy life, and relax and get used to not having a strong flat white delivered to my desk each morning, such a treat.

Country Manor Catering will still continue to trade strongly from the rear of the Bakery building.

Winton Bakery has new owners this week, 16 years after I bought the business from the McKenzie Family who had owned the Bakery for 53 years.

"What a pleasure it's been to serve our fabulous traditional food to our wonderful community all of those years."

Early on I thought I needed to delete our "traditional solid mince pie" as a North island visitor purchased one, said it was the worst pie he had ever eaten and if that was the type of pie we served in our Bakery he would be telling everyone not to come in!

Lisa Griffin

We are delighted to welcome a local agent Lisa Griffin to the Winton community.

Having worked as an accountant for Malloch McClean specialising in the rural sector, Lisa brings this knowledge to her career in real estate.

This will be a great help to her clients that are looking to make any lifestyle and residential property decisions.

Lochiel School Fundraiser

Sound
Foundations for Literacy

Saturday, March 25, 2023

Lochiel School Network Presents
EMMA NAHNA

Emma is a literacy-focused speech-language therapist with a passion for sharing learning with others. She is an incredible public speaker, focused on supporting others to understand and embed evidence-informed, effective literacy and oral language teaching for all students. Emma has worked overseas and all-around New Zealand – but this is her first trip to Southland!

SESSION 1: 9 AM TO 10 AM

The day kicks off from 9-10 with a 1-hour parent focused session, where Emma will discuss the basics and benefits of a Structured Literacy approach. This session is strongly recommended for parents of children attending a structured literacy school, as well as parents with a child who may be struggling with learning to read and spell. This hour costs $25 and is sure to support you in understanding how the brain learns to read and what teaching strategies best support that process.

Register here: <https://bit.ly/Invercargill-March-2023-Parents>

SESSION 2: 10:30 AM TO 4 PM

There will then be an in-depth professional development session available to everyone, parents and educators alike. Emma will walk us through 'sound walls' – what one is, and how to use one. Emma will discuss phonological awareness, and how to teach spelling patterns to support reading and writing in a Structured Literacy approach. This sessions costs $150 and will be engaging, informational, and practical.

Register here: <https://bit.ly/Invercargill-March-2023-Sound-Walls>

Emma has noted there isn't a lot of cross-over between the two events – so if you're super keen, you are welcome to attend both! This is a great way to support a local school, and a really exciting learning opportunity for the region. Please contact Lochiel.school.network@gmail.com with any questions.
